In which there is a textView inside cell, i want to do a thing when user long presses on the `textView` of cell, on which it will pop up a `UIView` and will be able to type a text. Then the view will save the text. At this moment, i have made an extension on `UITableViewCell`. And i put the `LongPressGestureRecognizer` on a `UITextView`. But when i put the gesture on a cell, the cell covers the textView,

so that i cannot see the textView. What is

What's New in the EzProxy?

ezProxy is a free utility which allows
you to balance the
bandwidth between
members of a
household or office,

the whole office or
the whole internet.

You can apply custom
rules to particular
users or groups. You can also control what happens when members of a
household, office or group exceed a
bandwidth limit.

ezProxy is a very easy
to use and highly
configurable utility,
that will manage
bandwidth between

computers or the whole internet for a household, office or even your whole network. Home page: connectivity as revealed by transcallosal magnetic stimulation in the cat. Transcallosal magnetic stimulation, paired at different interhemispheric distances, was applied in the somatosensory cortex of cats and evoked responses recorded over the contralateral hemisphere. Three components of the recorded responses were analyzed. They were present at all recording distances, but with different amplitudes: a first component lasting 2 msec and preceding the second one (possibly mediated by the passage of activity from the contralateral to the ipsilateral side through the corpus callosum), a second one of 8-10 msec (with some secondary components) and a third one of 20-30 msec. All three responses appeared rather homogeneous in the contralateral hemisphere and distinctly different in the ipsilateral one, indicating that the stimulation evoked exclusively contralateral responses. The different components appeared in the opposite order with increasing stimulation distance. The lack of ipsilateral components indicates that the interhemispheric transfer of the callosal volley is small. The transit time of the callosal volley is therefore estimated to be 30 msec. Convicted murderer John Venable, who won fame as a contestant on the reality show Survivor, has been stabbed to death by a knife-wielding intruder in his home, police have said. Police are investigating the killing of Venable, 58, who was remembered for being the former marine who lasted only one episode of the reality TV show before being voted out of the competition. He was serving a life sentence for murder when he stabbed to death a man in 2008 in New York. A doctor who was staying at the home in Washington state where the killing took place said Venable, whom he knew as a contestant on the show, had invited him over to the home in Seattle. After he arrived, there was a knock at the door and a man began smashing the glass in the door with a hammer. When Venable opened the door
